

Paul Friedberg, the “first delegate” of ShipTek 2010

ShipTek 2009, after leaving a prominent mark in Singapore is now all ready to enthral the maritime industry with ShipTek 2010 from 18-19 April 2010 at Hotel Crowne Plaza, Dubai.

ShipTek 2010 already ensures a convincing charisma with Paul Friedberg, President, Goltens Worldwide Services as the first and most distinguished delegate of their much awaited International Conference on Shipping, Marine and Offshore Industry.

The concept of “First Delegate” is roughly related to the “Keel Laying” ceremony of a ship which is considered as the most auspicious moment for the project. “ShipTek” believes that its “First Delegate” is just like a firm foundation of this project that will invite luck to the event.

The “Chief delegate” of the event Mr. Friedberg, President, Goltens Worldwide Services holds a dignified profile. After National Service in the Norwegian Navy he worked at Mobil Exploration in Norway and later held various positions in Kvaerner Rosenberg A/S, Stavanger. Soon he achieved the Managing Director position at Kvaerner Hetland A/S, Bryne, Norway followed by the Technical Director post of Kvaerner Govan Shipbuilding in Glasgow and Program Director at BAE Systems. He then joined Goltens in 2002 as MD for the Middle East & India region and VP for the Far East / South East Asia. In 2006, he was appointed President for the Goltens Worldwide Services, the position he holds since then till today.

ShipTek 2010 constituting of a two day International Conference in Shipping, Marine and Offshore Industry, ShipTek Expo 2010 and the Fourth International Maritime Video and Excellence awards has a larger and much refined scenario this time with the big shots of maritime industry as chief partners, sponsors and media associates.

The key players of industry, partnering and associating with the event have confirmed their full support and are in awe of the upcoming event, ShipTek 2010. Proving its caliber each time, ShipTek is setting to be at its best.
